Designed as a builder spec home, Magnolia Park features a structurally simplistic, yet spatially verbose plan. With a focus on the latest design trends for indoor/outdoor connectivity, this home's everyday living space is expanded seamlessly by an 800-square-foot outdoor gathering place. With vaulted ceilings and a unique sloping exterior ceiling, natural light floods the space. A functional front porch activates the street, while the private outdoor space in the rear allows for four-season living. To meet the neighborhood's Craftsman design standards, three unique and historically accurate elevations with traditional Craftsman colors were created.
